No problem getting them all in the time allowed but not so easy to be certain you hadn't missed one or two out! Bryan's method was to fold the map in half and do the two halves separately. I always choose a route round and then do all the ones close to that route the first time I pass near (even if it might be slightly shorter to get them later). Oli managed to average 22 seconds per control. Art had to cut his run short due to the courses closing time (having already run the A and B courses which means he did 60 controls in the evening, aged 9). Fionn is high up amongst the adults as usual.

The two linear courses (results below) were about the same length (1.5km straight line) but A was a bit more technical while B had trickier route choices.
