First, apologies for the late start. If we had advertised the usual 1030 start we would have been OK, but the food festival I was trying to avoid wasn't in Pickering town centre after all! But at least it meant a slightly cooler time of day.

I knew the area north of the castle was interesting, and perhaps a little challenging, but it seems it was more challenging than I thought! Some interesting routes judging from some of the controls punched. Some of the downloads may have confused the SI software on another day, but all controls visited in the right order were in there. Even if visited more than once!

Big thanks to the helpers Katie, Emma, Amanda, Steve and Mike. Especially big thanks to Richard and Karen without whom we would have started even later!

Also thanks to English Heritage for loan of their lawn, and thanks to Beck Isle Museum for loan of their arch.

*Lost property. A pair of +2 reading glasses. If you left them behind let me know and we will see if we can reconnect you.
